

RMT up front

National Union of Rail, Maritime & Transport Workers

“I am appalled that London Underground are refusing to reinstate Arwyn Thomas and Eamonn Lynch, when the Employment Tribunal has already ruled that their dismissal was discriminatory because of their trade union activities. It is vital that we stand up for our local trade union reps who are in the frontline of protecting workers interests and I fully support the RMT's political and industrial campaign for justice for Arwyn and Eamonn.”

Jeremy Corbyn MP

Train drivers Eamonn Lynch and Arwyn Thomas have been sacked by London Underground because they are trade union reps. This is illegal. Two Tribunal judges have said as much and ordered LU to continue to pay their wages until their full tribunal hearings.

Just as it is illegal to discriminate against a worker because they are a woman, black or gay; it is also illegal to sack someone because they are a trade unionist.

The RMT will not tolerate the illegal sackings of our driver members. The union has agreed that unless Eamonn and Arwyn are reinstated then all drivers on LU will be balloted for strike action.
